had an existence. One scheme, urged a year or two ago, was for the nation to build an opposition double track road from New York to the Mississippi river, and run opposition to its own citizens. That was about as near common sense as we should expect from average Congressmen. Other plans contemplate improved water routes. But the thing of all others, and the one most absolutely essential—open and free markets with all mankind—it is safe to say, will receive no consideration. And yet of what use would be multiplied routes if the demand for surplus crops is cut off? As

The hasty action of the President, under the advice of Attorney General Williams, in recognizing Pinchback as Governor of Louisiana, is illustrated in the fact, subse-quently, disclosed, that Pinchback never was Lieutenant Governor of that State, and, consequently, could not succeed as Governor. He was a member of the State Senate, and presiding officer of that body; but his term as Senator expired on the 4th day of November, and his success. the 4th day of November, and his success-or is now serving as member of the State i Senate.
